60 Years in the Making

A TANTALIZING ANNOUNCEMENT

The Ocean Club, A Four Seasons Resort, Bahamas is the Bahamas’ most storied resort—the playground of celebrities, the setting for movies, and the epitome of glamorous island living for generations. It is set on 35 lush acres overlooking a five-mile stretch of pristine white sand beach on Paradise Island, across an inland waterway from Nassau.

Now, on its 60th Anniversary, The Ocean Club introduces the opportunity to own a part of its next chapter – The Ocean Club, Four Seasons Residences, Bahamas. Owners will enjoy the best of The Ocean Club, a Four Seasons Resort, with additional amenities and private spaces for their exclusive use. The Four Seasons Residences team will look after the home, preparing it for the owner’s return and – if so desired – curating rentals to Resort guests.

Paradise Island

“THE MOST BEAUTIFUL PLACE ON PLANET EARTH”

When Buzz Aldrin and his Gemini 12 crewmates looked down from their orbiting space capsule, they agreed that a brilliant turquoise area off the coast of Florida stood out as the most beautiful place on Earth: The Bahamas.

Paradise Island was painstakingly designed to be the best of The Bahamas. Look over the luxury yachts in the marina as you cross the Sidney Poitier Bridge from Nassau, and a breadth of luxury awaits. To the west, the excitement of the casinos and family activities of Atlantis. On the eastern terminus of the 5 miles of beach sits the acclaimed Ocean Club Golf Course.

And in between sits the centerpiece, the crown jewel: Huntington Hartford's oasis, secluded and framed by lush vegetation and European gardens. The Ocean Club, A Four Seasons Resort.

A Legendary Heritage

WHEN RIVIERA GLAMOUR ARRIVED IN THE BAHAMAS

It started in 1959 with a handshake between two of the world's richest men. Huntington Hartford II, dubbed "The most fantastic man in the world" by Andy Warhol, purchased the island estate of industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren, just across the waterway from Nassau. Renaming it Paradise Island, he envisioned a resort more beautiful—and much closer—than the French Riviera.

To fully realize his vision, Hartford spared no expense. He imported the staff from the world's most glamorous hotel, the Hotel du Cap. He hired world #1 golfer Gary Player as the head golf pro, and world #1 tennis player Pancho Gonzales as the head tennis pro. And he graced the property with terraced gardens, fountains, and statuary from Europe, along with magnificent 12th-century Augustinian cloisters shipped piece-by-piece from the Pyrenees.

In 1962 Hartford welcomed over 1,000 of his friends—including Sinatra, Elvis, Gabor, Hearst and a host of dukes, earls, and ambassadors—to the "Bal du Paradis," his debut party for Paradise Island and his new resort, The Ocean Club. Benny Goodman led his orchestra as fireworks from Monaco lit the sky. The party lasted for days. Everyone was inspired, pampered, and instantly smitten. More than anything, they fell in love with The Ocean Club's sugary sand beaches and clear, warm turquoise waters.

A legend was born.

Beyond the Typical
A CLUB
FOR THE AGES

The Ocean Club is one of only a few places left in the world that exists beyond the typical. This is where things like heritage, appreciation for natural beauty and gracious service are still defining features. Here, amidst the wonderful art collection of Huntington Hartford and John Volk's classic Bahamian architecture, is a welcoming staff that creates a refined backdrop for enjoying the lush tropics and pristine beaches.

*“We have an iconic resort on Paradise Island,
one of the world’s most beautiful settings.
But what makes The Ocean Club really special for guests is our team. They do that effortlessly, every day, because it’s coming from the heart.”*

WAKE UP AND PLAY

Since its gala debut, Paradise Island has lived up to its name for those seeking a near-limitless offering of activities, world-class facilities and premier service. A concierge team acclaimed for its creativity has curated vacation memories for generations of families.

The Ocean Club, A Four Seasons Resort, Bahamas is unique in its breadth of offerings – but everything at the Resort is a step beyond. Wellness and spa facilities are best-in-class – but the 4-handed massage in the Balinese spa bungalows is revered. Golf at the Tom Weiskopf-designed Ocean Club Golf Course and tennis on the Har-Tru courts are invigorating – and you might even catch a tennis lesson with local legend Leo Rolle, famous for fixing Nixon’s backhand decades ago. And who doesn’t love a picnic – but where else in the tropics can you have one catered in a true European garden?

The possibilities for spectacular experiences and lifelong memories at The Ocean Club can seem endless. Owners at The Ocean Club, Four Seasons Residences, Bahamas will have more opportunities to truly explore those possibilities.

World-Renowned Dining Experiences

EPICUREAN DREAMS COME TRUE

Everything at The Ocean Club is delicious... including the food and drink services.

Dune Restaurant by Michelin-starred chef Jean-Georges Vongerichten opened 22 years ago before he became an international celebrity, so it holds a special place in his heart. Jean-Georges comes to The Ocean Club at least four times a year to reinvent his unique Bahamian-influenced French menu, making sure the experience is forever fresh and exciting. Over the years certain dishes have become so beloved -- like the Bahamian Conch Salad Spring Roll -- people make pilgrimages here just to indulge in them. Jean-Georges is also the creative visionary behind The Ocean Club's delightful poolside Ocean Grill.

The Martini Bar, featured in Daniel Craig's Bond debut, Casino Royale, is the rare lounge where classic coexists with exciting. Jackets for men, cocktail-chic for women and shaken (not stirred) for the martinis -- served by renowned mixologist Keith Cash who has provided proper Vesper Martinis to not one but two James Bonds (in addition to Craig, Sean Connery was a regular here for 50 years starting when he strolled these beaches and swam these waters in Thunderball).

Beyond the Gates

SIXTY-SEVEN OCEANFRONT RESIDENCES

Pass through the gates, by the guard house and enter this secure tropical wonderland. The winding entry road passes through lush, mature vegetation. Towering trees sway and giant leaves wave, coaxed by gentle, balmy breezes. A hummingbird darts by, peacocks stand watch. Eventually there is a clearing, revealing the Residences. At the porte cochere, the ever-present concierge and Four Seasons Residences staff are there to greet and attend to all needs.

From the lobby you can look out to the manicured lawns with palm trees and hammocks and experience what lifelong naturalist and ocean lover Huntington Hartford saw when he first gazed at the iconic blue and white arc of the beach and sea, and envisioned living here.

Welcome to a place unto itself. Fresh and vibrant with just a touch of formality – steeped in a distinguished heritage, while eager for new stories.
